Rajagiri College of Social Sciences

Drawing inspiration from founder, St. Kuriakose Elias Chavara, a visionary and religious leader of the 19th century, the Carmelites of Mary Immaculate (CMI) were the first Indian indigenous religious congregation for men. The CMI mission of education comprises a network of 448 institutions - including over 200 schools, 14 university affiliated colleges, 1 engineering college, 12 technical institutes, 1 university, 2 medical colleges, 3 B.Ed. colleges, 5 special schools, 18 non formal educational institutions and 17 cultural centres spread all over India and beyond. The Department of Computer Science of Rajagiri College of Social Sciences (RCSS) was established in 2001 to offer the MCA programme to equip students to become top class computer professionals.

About the Workshop

Angular is the most popular single framework for mobile & desktop. Angular combines declarative templates, dependency injections, end to end tooling, and integrated best practices to solve development challenges. The purpose of the two day national workshop on framework building in Angular is to develop an expertise by providing a hands on practical exposure to the Angular framework. Participants will be equipped with skills to build their own projects in the Angular framework.
